P R E F A C E .

THE CONSISTORY COURT OF YORK.

THE records of this Court are unfortunately, but unavoidably, in two different depositories. When they are registered the wills and grants of administration are enrolled in the archbishops' registers with a great variety of purely ecclesiastical documents. These volumes are preserved in the Diocesan Registry at York. Such of the original testamentary documents of the court as have survived the ravages of time have been removed to the District Probate Registry there. But not all the wills and grants are enrolled; so that neither series is complete in itself, as theoretically it should be. Consequently it is advisable for the searcher to examine both.

For the reason given above, this index of the original documents preserved in the District Probate Registry, although, it is hoped, complete so far as it goes, is not by any means a full index to all the wills proved and administrations granted in this court. An index to the wills and grants in the archbishops' registers has been made by Mr. A. V. Hudson, but it is not on the same lines as the Society's indexes. At the time of his death the late Mr. William Brown was working on Mr. Hudson's index, bringing it into line with those issued by the Society, and inserting some references which had not been included. But his task had not progressed very far, and at present there appears to be no prospect of its being completed. It would be an advantage if it were. However, as the two indexes could not very well have been consolidated there is no reason why this one should not be printed, and searchers get the advantage of the information which it contains, more especially as further particulars, sometimes of considerable importance, can be obtained from the bonds and other documents, which are not to be found in the will itself.

The wills proved in the Consistory Court were those of
(1) All beneficed clergymen dying within the diocese of York, except in places of peculiar and exempt jurisdiction, who were not possessed of bona notabilia in more jurisdictions than one.¹

- (2) All persons, clergy or laymen, dying possessed of personal property solely within the Peculiars during the six months prior to the archbishop's visitation, when their jurisdiction was inhibited.
- (3) Laymen when there was an appeal from an inferior court.

It is not always possible to say whether the will of a layman, found in this court, has been proved by reason of the visitation of the archbishop, or in consequence of an appeal from an inferior court. Usually the words ratione visitationis, in full or contracted, or the letter V, are marked on one of the documents or on the cover of the bundle in the former case. But not always. When this indication is absent then the date of proof, if it has been preserved, is a valuable clue. If it coincides with the date of one of the archbishops' visitations, a list of which is given below, it would point to this being the cause. If it is clear that the testator did not die in any peculiar then it is almost certain that the will has reached this court by reason of an appeal. A very few of the papers are so marked. The original documents of the court were until recently kept in large bundles, each covering a considerable number of years. These are now divided into smaller bundles, thus facilitating reference. No Act Books are known to be in existence. In the few cases in which the date of probate appears in this index it has been taken from an endorsement on the will.

The index here printed covers the years 1427 to 1658. There is in the registry an index of wills and administrations of clerks from A.D. 1660 to 1710, in alphabetical order; and in the same book an index of wills and administrations of laymen, despatched by reason of visitation (of the archbishop), from 1660 to 1714, also arranged alphabetically, under the year of visitation. The years of the archbishops' visitations are given as 1662, 1667, 1674, 1682, 1684-5, 1690, 1693, 1697 and 1698, 1712 and 1713. There is another volume containing (1) a list of wills, administrations, etc., during Archbishop Dawes' time, 1713-1724, and (2) a list of wills and administrations in the Consistory Court of York 1808-1858 (clergy and laymen mixed).

The documents which may be found in connection with a probate in the Consistory Court are, in order of date (1) the will itself; (2) the inventory of the testator's effects, usually made within a day or two of his death; (3) the commission, generally issued to one or more neighbouring clergymen, and not to the rural dean as in the Exchequer court, to take the oaths of the executors and to receive the inventory and the bonds for the due execution of the will;

(4) the bonds for the true performance of the will; (5) the curation or tuition bonds where the deceased left children under age; (6) in cases where the original executor, or executors, had died without administering the whole estate, a further bond (de bonis non) by the person taking on the further administration; and (7) the accounts of the executors. Many of these original documents are in a bad state, some have perished, and others have probably never been preserved.

From 1652 to 1660 no wills were proved at York, and yet there are a few for this period to be found among the documents of this court. They are mostly copies of wills of persons resident in the province of Canterbury, e.g. in the counties of Sussex, Surrey and Kent. It is possible that they were deposited in this court at a later date in connection with some litigation.

Among the documents preserved are some of the testamentary papers of Toby Matthew and Thomas Young, archbishops of York; James Pilkington, bishop of Durham; and Henry Robinson and Robert Snowden, bishops of Carlisle. The expression rector, parson or vicar is almost constantly used. But Christopher Shute describes himself as "pastor of the congregacon of Gigleswick," and John Simpson as "minister of the congregation of the parishioners of Kirk Ellay." A curious expression is used by John Robinson, who designates himself "parson of Truswell of the westhold." Treswell is a small parish 5 miles from Retford. It was anciently in two manors called the East and West Hold. Similarly the rectory was in two medieties.¹ Hence the expression "parson of the westhold." Of the laymen, William Boulton describes himself as a "howsewrighte," and John Henty of Lewes in Sussex as a "sadwareman."

THE COURT OF THE DEAN OF YORK.

A very imperfect account is given of this peculiar, by Dr. Marshall, who only tells us that its jurisdiction included Barmby Moor and Pocklington.² Its jurisdiction, however, which extended over a larger area than usual in peculiars, is fully set out in the Parliamentary Return of 1829,³ and it included Pickering, with Newton,⁴ Ebberston, Allerston, Ellerburn, Wilton and Goathland in the ancient parish of Pickering; Pocklington, with Yapham, Millington,

² Marshall, G. W., A Handbook to the Ancient Courts of Probate, 1895, p. 59.

⁴ Newton upon Rocliffe.

Givendale, Thornton,¹ Allerthorpe, Fangfoss, Barmby Moor,² Hayton and Beilby, in the ancient parish of Pocklington; Kilham, to which no chapelries were attached; and Kilnwick Percy. Lawton gives the same enumeration with the addition of Meltonby, which was, however, not a separate chapelry, but included in Yapham. Pickering and Pocklington, with their chapels, and Kilham were given by Henry I to St. Peter and to Gerard, archbishop of York (1100–1108).³ By an exchange they came to the Dean and Chapter, by whom they were annexed to the deanery as part of its endowment. Kilnwick Percy was bestowed on the deanery in the time of Henry II by Robert de Percy.⁴ Vicarages were ordained in all these churches, except Kilnwick Percy, in 1252,⁵ and in the last named church in 1312.⁶ The chapels dependent on Pickering and Pocklington were included in the ordination, being grouped in couples, except Goathland, which remained a curacy dependent on Pickering. Over all these places the Dean exercised testamentary jurisdiction, his powers being inhibited only at the Archbishop's visitation,⁷ when all wills had to be proved and administrations granted in the Consistory Court⁸; and as in all other peculiars if testator died with bona notabilia in some other jurisdiction as well the probate of his will lay with the Prerogative Court.

This index covers the period 1604 to 1722, and is compiled from three Act Books written on paper. The original documents still extant for this period are:

- (1) An unbound parchment register of 32 folios, similar in size to the registers of the Exchequer Court, with an index, also on parchment, in book form. The first registered will is that of Timothy Wells, dated 2 July, 1704, and the last that of Richard Halder dated Mar. 25, 1698, and proved 1713. It looks as if it had been the intention at one time to register all the wills but that the attempt had been abandoned.

² The prebendary of Barmby Moor formerly had some jurisdiction in this parish (Lawton's Bona Notabilia, p. 67). There is said to be a separate index at York to the wills proved in the prebendal court, 1668–1736, from which time they were entered with those of the deanery. There is, however, no reference to this prebendal court in the Parliamentary Return of 1829.

- (2) Three Act Books. The first book begins on Sept. 10, 1604, the last entry being dated Jul. 18, 1651. After folio 150 there are a large number of blank folios, and then the numbering recommences. On folios 151-152 is a copy of the ordination of the vicarages of the peculiar printed in the register of Archbishop Gray.¹ Folio 153 is headed "Domysday," which is continued on folio 154, and contains an account of the privileges of the Dean and Chapter. The few remaining pages of the book are blank.

The Acts in the second book which are not duplicates extend from Jan. 23, 1660, to Dec. 27, 1683, beginning on folio 20. But in this book the first 18 folios contain entries already recorded in Act Book No. 1. These include none which are not in that book, but there are a few in the first book which are not repeated in the second. This latter volume begins with an entry dated Apl. 20, 1618. These duplicate entries end on folio 18 with an unfinished one of Feb. 21, 1621. On folio 19 is an entry of a sequestration, included in the index. Regular entries which are in continuation of those in the first book begin on folio 20. On the dorse of folio 27 is a probate act dated Jan. 26, 1621, and folios 28-30 contain acts between this date and Apl. 4, 1623, duplicating those contained in Act Book No. 1, where there are again a very few acts not included in No. 2. At the bottom of folio 30 the entries for 1661 begin again. At the other end of the book the pagination commences afresh. On the first folio are a number of citations re testamentary matters; the second consists of entries referring to grants of next presentations, etc. There follow six folios of collations and then five of leases of tenements and tithes. There are a number of loose papers pinned in this book recording lists of wills, bonds and inventories which are "tore" or "awanting."

The third Act Book contains Acts from Apl. 1, 1684, to Mar. 26, 1722. There are a few caveats at the beginning of the volume. An alphabetical index to wills, administrations, etc., in this court from 1722 to 1858 commences on folio 95. It has a fresh pagination and occupies 96 pages. There are a few papers pinned in this volume also, with lists of wills, etc., "tore" and "awanting."

- (3) There is only one bundle of original documents before 1660, but afterwards they follow in regular order.

The list of the Archbishops' Visitations when the jurisdiction of the peculiar was inhibited is given on a slip of paper fastened to the front fly leaf of Act Book No. 3. The dates are as follows: 1684; 1716; 1727, 1726 [sic]; 1743; 1748, 1749; 1764; 1770; 1777; 1781; 1786; 1791 (inhibited for a few weeks); 1809 (visitation); 1816 (inhibited for a few days); 1817 (visitation); 1825 (do.); 1849; 1853.

This index affords a number of instances of the wills of the clergy, whose goods were wholly in the peculiar, being normally proved in the court of the peculiar. The licence to John Baker to teach at the Free Grammar School of Pocklington gives the additional information, to that contained in the Yorkshire Archæological Journal, xiv, p. 139, of the precise date of his licence and the knowledge that he was a Master of Arts. The existence of wills of the Visitation families of Rudston of Hayton, Edgerton of Allerston, and others, not noted in Clay's edition of Dugdale's Visitation, are brought to light by this index, the publication of which should be of the greatest assistance to those interested in the genealogy of families whose ancestors lived in this peculiar.

THE CONSISTORY COURT OF YORK.

INDEX TO THE ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS preserved in the District Probate Registry at York.

A.D. 1427 TO A.D. 1658.

The date of the Probate, when known, precedes the Name. The extant document or documents, with their dates, follow the Name. The additional matter, within square brackets, is endorsed on the document. The letter "W" denotes a Will. "Com." indicates a commission. The letter "V" signifies that probate or administration was granted by reason of the Archbishop's Visitation of the Peculiar in which testator died.
